THE WESTERN UNION.

Dr. Norvin Green Gives the House Committee His Ideas as to the Difference Between the Powers and the Rights of the Government.

WASHIN GTON, May 3 .- Dr. Norvin Green. president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, appeared before the House Committee on Post-offices to present some facts upon the subject of the telegraph system. of the country. He first addressed himself to the Hopkins bill to establish a posrights of property were entirely ignored. The act of 1866, to aid in the construct on and maintenance of telegraphs, provided that, if the Government should establish a postal telegraph system, it would take the property of the companies accepting the provisions of the act at a valuation to be ascertained by five persons. Under the provisions of that act four-fifths of the telegraph properties of the country had been created and established believing and relying on the good the Government more than a million rates established by the Postmuster-General had been about half the usual rates of commercial messages. The Government business required instant transmission at the busiest hour of the day to the detriment of the commercial business. Therefore the most exacting service the Western Union was called upon to perform was done at a loss. If the Government had a right to establish a telegraph, certainly had the right, not by the power of emment domain but by agreement, to take the property. In all fairness if the Government contemplated a telegraph business the only proper way to do so was Ex-Governor George W. Glick was called to take the existing property and pay

A vindictive impulse, Dr. Green declared, was about the last thing which should govern a deliberative body, yet the bill under consideration had the appearance of being dictated by a vindictive impulse. same. The Government might have the power to build telegraphs and to declare that any person doing a telegraph business would be a violator of the law, but it had a right to do only what was right. He asked if it was right to confiscate all existing properties which had been built up under the provisions of the act of 1866. The Government did not need a telegraph. It would not benefit the Government. His remarks were not made with a view to selling the Western Union to the Government, as the Western Union did not want to sell, but its purchase was the only proper basis on which the Government could go into the telegraph business. Dr. Green next turned his attention to the pending Inter-State telegraph bills, and re cate t the same craticisms upon them which he had made before the Senate committee. He was particularly bitter in his reference to the dragnet subpœnas which had compelled the production of great files of messages. He referred to the action of Resolved. AN OLD MURDER.

Discovery of the Murder of Chinese Commited in Idaho Over a Year Ago. SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.-Mail advices to-day brought the first authentic details of a wholesale murder of Chinese miners in the Snake River country, Idaho, nearly by the president of this association; and that one year ago. At that time the deserted camp was found on the river bank and the blood-stained conditation of the huts and pieces of clothing found led to the supposition that a terrible crime had been committed. The bodies of several Chinamer who were known to have belonged to the camp were found floating in the river, and their condition was in corroboration of the theory of murder. Several arrests have been made lately, and the following facts connected with a most extraordinary and brutal massacre are given: It seems that in May last a party of half a dozen miners left what is known as Douglas Cabin estensibly to search for consider so important a measure, and re- stock. They were fully armed, and made their way to a high bluff overlooking the camp of the Chinese, who were known to have considerable money in gold dust and coin. Two men named Canfield and Larne opened fire on the Chinese and killed ter men. The bodies were thrown into the river. The next day three of the parties returned. One poor Chinaman, who had not been killed but severely wounded, had got into a boat and was working his way across the river as best he could. Shortly after the murd-rers arrived a wind blew the boat towards the shore where they were standing, and the Chinaman was dispatched without further ceremony. The assassins secured $2,000 from the camp and escaped arrest for nearly a year.

Worked Himself Up. NEW YORK, May 2.-Assistant Cashier Charles I. De Baum, of the Park National Bank, has disappeared. A meeting of the directors was held to-day. Before it went into session Cashier Wright promised to give the reporters a statement, but when it adjourned he declined to do so. All he would say was that the amount of the defalcation was $9,000; that De Baum entered the bank in a minor position twenty-one years ago and gradually worked up to the position of assistant cashier and that he would have probably been cashier in a short time had he gone straight. De Baum resigned his position April 19, assigning ill health as the cause.
